

Haiti Relief Efforts

In the wake of an earthquake that has devastated the country of Haiti, there are many groups that are seeking assistance in the relief efforts. After doing much research, it appears that local organizations have been flooded with donations of clothing, medical supplies, and food. So much so that they can not store anymore of these items. They are however, still seeking monetary donations. If you are interested in making a financial contribution, we have provided you with a list of organizations that you can contact. Also, the Red Cross is seeking blood donations for those in need in Haiti.
